TEXAS A&M IS TRANSFER FRIENDLY.
Choose a major and familiarize yourself with the academic college guidelines

Each college/major has its own admission requirements to Texas A&M. Meeting the minimum requirements does not guarantee admission.

GRADE POINT AVERAGE (GPA)
Grades for all transferable courses are used to calculate GPA, including: failing grades, repeated courses, Withdraw/Fail, Incomplete, etc.

Grades reported as Incomplete are computed as an F. Plus and minus grade designations are not used; C+ is computed as a C, B- as a B, etc.

SPECIFYING A MAJOR
Applicants must apply to a specific major within an academic college and will be given the option to list a second-choice major.

Second-choice majors are NOT considered by every college/major, and admission to a second-choice is often more competitive. See the Transfer Course Sheets for information concerning which majors do or do not review second-choice majors.

Familiarize yourself with the Transfer Course Sheet associated with your desired major

Now that you know the college and major you’re interested in, access major-specific information at admissions.tamu.edu/transfer.

You can also visit tx.ag/tr-equivalency for Texas A&M course equivalencies from other academic institutions. The Texas Common Course Numbering System is a good resource at tccns.org.

TRANSFER COURSE SHEETS - coursework information for your intended major

Apply to Texas A&M

Complete the entire admission application including Essay Topic A. The information you provide inside the transfer application will also be used for scholarship consideration. admission.tamu.edu/transfer

A 2.5 GPA on a minimum of 24 hours of graded transferable coursework is required for review. Credit by examination courses will not count towards the 24 hours required for consideration for admission.

In addition to the application, other documents are also required. See page 4.

ADMISSIONS DECISIONS
Decisions are made by each college and major on a rolling basis with preference given to applicants with the highest GPA, most appropriate courses for the specified college/major, and compelling essay.

Applicants denied by their first-choice major may be reviewed by their second-choice major.

Summer/fall applicants may be asked to submit spring grades before a decision is made.

Frequent course drops/withdraws and unsatisfactory grades (D or F, depending on intended major) are considered in review.

Applicants should include in-progress coursework on the application and college transcript. In-progress courses listed on an official transcript could factor into admission decisions depending on the college/major.

TIPS FOR APPLYING
Submit the application and required documents early in the admissions cycle. Allow 2-3 weeks to process each document.

Be sure to list all previous colleges or universities in the application. This includes dual credit institutions.

Check your application status online at howdy.tamu.edu via the Applicant Tab. It is the applicant’s responsibility to ensure completion of the file.

Required documents submitted within one month of the deadline may not be noted as received until after the deadline has passed.

Select a major that matches your career interests regardless of whether or not you plan to enter the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (DVM) program after receiving your undergraduate degree. Any major may be selected; however, some curricula more closely parallel courses that must be completed before applying to the DVM program than others.
