*General Elective Requirement can be fulfilled by any approved/transferable college course

At least one of these General Electives will have to be a Cultural Discourse (CD) Course to meet graduation requirements.

Important: Environmental Design consists of 4 years of sequential studios courses. Students will have 4 additional years when they transfer to A&M regardless of how many hours they transfer. For instance, if a student begins the studio sequence in Fall 2020, they will not graduate any earlier than Spring 2024, regardless of how many hours they transfer or how many hours they have taken in the summers. You may contact the Environmental Design advisor to see if you can transfer in the Summer to catch up in the studio sequence.

Career & Educational Opportunities

Individuals in this industry focus on those disciplines which plan, develop, and support the built environment. Environmental Design professionals, including architecture and allied disciplines, are committed to improving the way people live and interact with their environment, particularly the built environment. Students in the Environmental Design-Architectural Studies program develop skills and acquire knowledge through a studio-based experience with a variety of proposed or actual design-related projects. The studio projects place a shared emphasis on the technical and expressive content of design work; the processes by which student's research, synthesize and document their design ideas; and the creation of tangible products that achieve a high quality of graphic and physical craft.
